

Disclaimer

The information on this website is solely intended as general information. You cannot derive any rights from this information, and you should not regard this information as advice. Transferendi b.v. is not liable for damage that arises as a result of incorrect or incomplete information on this website.

If you wish to use information from this website, you must first obtain permission. The website contains information that is protected by copyright, trademark or other property rights. When you send information to Transferendi b.v. by email or through the forms on this website, this information is secured. Of course, Transferendi b.v. will handle your personal data with care. You can read more about this in our Privacy Statement.

View our General Terms and Conditions.

